100-minute police probe meeting 'productive'

GRANITE CITY — Reasons to probe more Police Department activities will be outlined next week for Dick Allen, Madison County state's attorney.

After a meeting Monday, Mayor Von Dee Cruse and 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney decided to discuss Partney's allegations with Allen as soon as possible, Partney said.

Cruse and Partney had agreed to discuss the allegations during a closed City Council meeting last week that resulted in loud remarks that could be heard beyond the closed door. Alleged illegal and unethical police activities were outlined during the closed meeting.

Partney called the 100-minute meeting held Monday with Cruse "productive."

"We had no arguments whatsoever," Partney said. "We agreed to say that we did meet and that I'm going to set up a meeting with the state's attorney," Cruse said. The mayor said there is an agreement to say no more.

City Attorney Mark Goldenburg was also present, but declined comment.

In a letter released to the Press-Record last week that Partney said he read to the City Council in its closed session, five alleged police problems are outlined.

The allegations involve questions about the department's internal investigation into the arrest of Partney's brother, David Partney, on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol; "excessive drinking" by department members; "sexual misconduct and sexual harassment" by a policeman; drug dealing by Police Department members; and that an investigation into test scores achieved by department members is politically motivated.

The Division of Criminal Investigation has been in Granite City during the past several weeks on a probe requested by Allen and Police Chief Bill Harris. DCI wants to learn how two patrolmen finished first and second in the nation on a test taken in July 1985 for promotion to sergeant. Tests had been mailed to Partney's home, who was then chairman of the Fire and Police Commission.

7 injured in head-on 162 crash

Seven persons, including five from one family, were injured when a pickup truck and station wagon collided head-on on Illinois 162 at 7:49 a.m. Saturday.

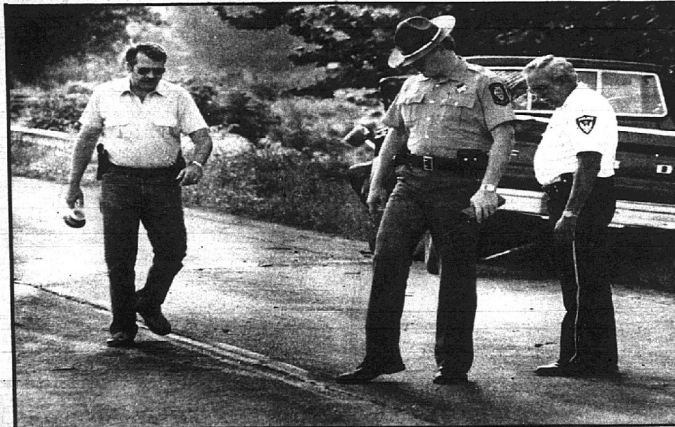

The accident occurred one half mile east of an Interstate 255 construction site.

Rick Lesko, 35, owner of Sullivan's Liquor Store, 2260 Washington Ave., was driving his station wagon eastbound on Illinois 162 when the westbound pickup truck of William Buchanan, 34, of Troy, apparently crossed the center line and struck the Lesko auto head-on, according to Pontoon Beach police reports.

The Lesko auto came to rest in a ditch along the highway before it burst into flames. Passengers pulled the family members from the auto before it burned.

A state police accident reconstruction team assisted in determining the cause of the crash.

Lesko was in serious condition Tuesday in the surgical intensive care department at Missouri Baptist Hospital. He was taken (See INJURED, Page 12A)

SCENE OF HEAD-ON CRASH: State and Pontoon Beach police reconstruct the two-vehicle accident that occurred at 7:49 a.m. Saturday on Illinois 162 one half mile east of Interstate 255. Reports indicate the driver the pickup truck in background crossed the center line of the highway and struck a station wagon head-on.

Labor Council criticizes volunteer firemen idea

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City Trades and Labor Council has appealed to Mayor Von Dee Cruse not to change the Granite City Fire Department into a volunteer system.

Cruse denied he favors a volunteer department.

In a letter to Cruse, the council's secretary, Albert Supp, said that, though volunteer fire departments provide good service to smaller communities, a volunteer service in Granite City would not work.

"With our fair-sized industrial base, our many churches, schools and our hospital, it is the council's opinion that this is a rather ludicrous proposition," Supp said.

He said that businesses looking to locate in the city would be discouraged to find a volunteer fire department.

Granite City Firefighters Local 253, which represents the city's firemen, is a member of the labor council.

Supp referred to what he said was Cruse's "wish that our city's fire department be changed to a volunteer system."

Cruse said two months ago at an aldermanic Finance Committee meeting that the city should look into cost-cutting measures for the fire department, including making the department into a volunteer service. But Cruse didn't say he was considering such a move.

"I said this was happening in other communities and should be looked into here at a future time. I did not say that I am supporting a volunteer fire department," Cruse said.

Cruse criticized the release of the Labor Council's letter at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

"I don't know who did it ... but I don't appreciate it," Cruse said, referring to the letter being included in the aldermen's information packet.

Cruse said he considered the letter, which was addressed to him at City Hall, to be a personal letter to him.

Annexation petition delayed

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Annexation of a land parcel into the city is being delayed pending the outcome of the land's zoning classification.

A 2.5-acre tract, described as agricultural and owned by Udeil Bischoff, is located south of Illinois 162, next to Granite City Steel.

Planning and Zoning Commission member Dave McFarland, said-Bischoff wants the land annexed into the city and the commercial zoning classification changed from an M-1 commercial zoning class to M-3 class, McFarland said.

McFarland said commission members were reluctant to change the commercial classification and turned the change over to City Attorney Mark Goldenburg for consideration.

"We'd just like to give the zoning they need and nothing more," McFarland said.

Bischoff wants to put a trailer truck repair business at the location. The M-1 zoning class would allow that type of business there, McFarland said.

Bischoff asked for the higher zoning class because the Granite City Steel land, which is contiguous to Bischoff's property, is zoned M-3 and because an M-1 class carries a minimum area requirement, according to the commission's minutes.

McFarland said an M-3 class would allow almost any type of business.

Poll shows Fields near top; Henkhaus also tests water

Madison County Auditor Pete Fields of Glen Carbon, encouraged by the results of a poll he commissioned, said he plans to run for election to Congress next year.

The race would be the second for Fields, who finished a strong second to long-time 21st District U.S. Rep. Melvin Price in the 1986 Democratic primary election. Price went to defeat Republican Robert H. Gaffner in a neck-and-neck race, and won a 22nd term in the House of Representatives.

But Price has announced this term will be his last and several Democrats have expressed interest in the 1988 nomination. Fields said a telephone survey of 600 registered voters who said they planned to vote in the Democratic primary showed that 27 percent favored Jerry F. Costello, 25 percent favored Fields, 13 percent Mick Henkhaus and 8 percent Mike Mansfield. Another 27 percent were undecided.

Although Costello, who is chairman of the St. Clair County Board, led in the four-way race, he trailed Fields 36 percent to 32 percent when respondents were asked to consider only those two candidates.

Fields said he was pleased by the poll results and expects to be a candidate.

"Everything is moving in that direction," Fields said. "He said he has wanted to run, but only if his candidacy has a chance of success. The poll results indicated there is no clear leader among likely candidates, he said.

The survey was conducted by McKee & Associates of Joliet, a polling firm specializing in labor issues and Democratic politics.

It has a stated margin of error of 4 percent. Fields paid for the poll with personal funds.

Henkhaus is the treasurer of Madison County and Mansfield is Price's top assistant. Both have expressed interest in the race, but neither has formally declared an intention to run.

Henkhaus said he will decide within the next few weeks whether to enter the race. He said he wants to run, but his decision will depend on family and financial considerations.

Henkhaus said a poll done for him earlier in June showed his name recognition among district voters about 8 percent higher than Fields' name recognition.

That poll, in which 402 district residents were surveyed, was conducted June 11 and 12 by Cooper and Secret Associates of Alexandria, Va., another firm which has polled for many Democratic candidates.

Both Henkhaus and Fields said they plan to closely analyze the poll results with representatives of the firm.

Both Henkhaus and Fields said their polls indicated that some voters confuse Costello with Illinois Treasurer Jerome Costello.

Fields said he expects a high level of public interest and media attention on the 1988 race, unlike past elections when Price was considered unbeatable. That

Engineer hired

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A new city engineer was appointed Tuesday by the City Council.

Hired was Air Force veteran Roger Hadley of Elliptical, Mo., to fill the $40,000-a-year position.

Hadley was chosen from several candidates interviewed in recent weeks.

He holds a master's degree in business administration from SIUE, a civil engineering degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a master's degree in civil engineering from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and has 28 years of engineering experience, according to Hadley's resume.

Hadley's last job was as a facility engineer for Bell Technical Operations Inc. at the St. Louis Area Support Center. He held that post from February 1985 to November 1986. His work at the support center included overseeing the construction of storm and sanitary sewers and maintenance of buildings and grounds.

Hadley will continue living in

Auto center to be studied

A city-funded study is set to determine the feasibility of moving four automobile dealers to one location. The $28,000 study, to be performed by the same company who is planning a downtown shopping center in Granite City, will look into moving the four dealers to an 'automotive center.' The study will be done in conjunction with shopping center plans.

Quote of the week

"To end the ban, Illinois will have to come up with tougher regulations," said Will Flower, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency spokesman about a ban on construction in the Metro East Area of certain factories and mills that produce high levels of pollutants. The area is under the sanctions because it does not meet federal clean air requirements.

FBI deters WWII

If this is World War III, we may owe our survival to the FBI.

While official Washington appears mostly concerned about ships in the Persian Gulf and missiles in Eastern Europe, our nation's greater vulnerability is here at home.

Until now most terrorist sabotage has been pipe-bomb stuff a safe distance from home.

The potential for terrorist sabotage in the United States was brought into sharp focus on June 10 when Tehran Radio quoted Iran's leaders threatening to hit us where we live.

"United States centers and nuclear reactors can be more vulnerable" than missile bases in Iran.

And one has only to look around the United States to recognize the feasibility of that threat.

Uninvited and unauthorized aliens enter the United States almost at will.

And modern technology leaves power plants and many of our laboratories helpless to defend themselves against suicidal fanatics.

Just the other day there was

much to do at our national Centers for Disease Control when two tiny vials of deadly virus went astray.

The FBI is solely responsible for our nation's internal security. That's a big order for an already overworked and understaffed agency.

The FBI has done a remarkable job to date of intercepting saboteurs inside the United States.

But while we are flexing our military muscle in the Persian Gulf—however justifiably—it is not necessarily going to keep that enemy "at arm's length."

The threat by Iran is to use some of its fanatics already inside the United States to "confront superpower aggression."

Tehran says Americans "are unable to accept the risk of confrontation in the Persian Gulf" because the United States knows that Iran has the capability to attack nuclear reactors in the U.S.

While we must not translate such threats too literally, we don't dare ignore them either.

In this age of techno-terrorism, our thin line of defense has to try to anticipate the use by trained terrorists of biological weapons almost too hideous to contemplate. Toxins are more potent than they have ever been. With a teaspoon you could poison the water supply of a city.

Chernobyl certainly should have warned the world that it doesn't take much to create a crisis. Though our own nation's power reactors have many more built-in safeguards, there is still no way that you can buy insurance against nuclear damage.

All this is not meant to alarm; just to alert; to suggest reconsideration of our nation's open-door policy.

J. Edgar Hoover once said, "In our much-vaunted tolerance for all people, the Communists have found our Achilles' heel."

Simon favors more ethanol use

One of the bright spots on the horizon for struggling farmers is finding new uses for agricultural products.

I have introduced a bill to greatly expand our use of ethanol, requiring that half of all gasoline in this country will contain 10 percent ethanol by 1992. Ethanol is an alcohol fuel generally made from corn.

At the present time, 7 percent of all gasoline sold contains 10 percent ethanol. The advantages of greater ethanol use include better corn prices for farmers (even the present use of ethanol has raised the price of corn about 11 cents a bushel), cleaner air for our cities, less dependence on Middle Eastern oil, and billions of dollars saved in the federal budget because of lowered subsidy payments.

Corn syrup is rapidly replacing sugar in many foods and we will soon have a biodegradable plastic made from corn. Tests

P.S.

By Paul Simon
U.S. Senator

are being run on a corn-based road de-icer that will reduce winter salt damage to roads and cars.

Now there are reports of a new use for soybeans that has particular appeal to me as a journalist and former newspaper editor. Soybean oil is being used to make printing ink. The new ink recently made its debut in Illinois with the Soybean Check-off Reporter, a bi-monthly mailed to 81,000 Illinois soybean farmers. The newspaper is printed in Rantoul.

Several other newspapers are testing the soybean oil ink. Soybean officials estimate the new use provides a potential annual market for 300 million pounds of soybean oil.

The ink has the additional advantage of being environmentally safe, an important factor since waste ink from the ordinary printing process can be toxic.

Increased demand for farm products, coupled with better management of production, will strengthen market prices and help lower the cost of current federal programs.

The troubled farm economy has hurt rural communities particularly hard, but its tentacles reach far beyond. Agricultural research that leads to new technologies and products will help more than just the farm economy.

American ingenuity, with the help of our farmers, can help keep the world lead.

Victory over utility cited by CUB member

To the editor:

Commonwealth Edison, the largest utility in northern Illinois, tried to avoid the audit for new construction requirement of the new Public Utilities Act by cutting a deal with Gov. Thompson and others. They offered a five-year freeze on electric rates if they could get a $660 million increase and shift their three new nuclear plants into a subsidiary.

The Citizens Utility Board not only refused to be a part of the deal, but we led the fight to challenge CE before the Illinois Commerce Commission on the whole issue of CE trying to bypass the new Public Utilities Act.

Last week in a 4-3 decision, the ICC agreed with CUB and other customer advocates and refused to grant the $660 million increase.

Though the people in our district are not directly affected by this decision, we should be heartened by an act that reflects an ICC that no longer rubber-stamps the requests for new rate increases.

CUB Director 21st Dist.

Kondrich delegate to Girl State

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Living in a mythical state in the east-central part of Illinois, a group of real young women recently learned more about politics, civic responsibility and leadership than previously they had encountered in their entire lives.

Michelle Ann Kondrich, who will be a senior at Granite City High School this fall, was among more than 570 young women attending the 1987 Illinois Girl State program on the campus of Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

She was selected this year's Girl Stater by American Legion Auxiliary Unit 113, which has sponsored a young woman each year for 47 years to represent the local auxiliary, said Lumeta Durbin, Unit 113 Girl State chairman.

Michelle, 16, attended last week's meeting of the auxiliary and described her experiences at Charleston. She is the daughter of Michael and Lynda Kondrich, 777 Carolyn Blvd., Mitchell.

The purpose of Girl State is to provide citizenship and leadership training for the young women, all of whom have completed their junior year of high school.

In the self-governing community of "mythical state," patterned on the State of Illinois, the procedures of Illinois governmental bodies are followed as closely as possible, the local chairman explained.

The girls were afforded an opportunity to live together as self-governing citizens and to learn "by doing" the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship, as well as its rights and privileges.

The "government in action" program is designed to provide a better understanding of government through direct participation in its many aspects.

The girls live in different "cities" and form two political parties. Parliamentary procedures and Americanism are taught.

Guided by the actual state constitutional process, the Girl

Staters organize campaigns and hold conventions and caucuses.

They elected city, county and state officials — from precinct committeemen to a state governor — and members of a state legislature and then performed the duties of the office they attained.

Michelle was elected as a judge in the "statewide" balloting.

At high school, she is a member of the National Honor Society and the Flag Squad, having served as squad captain for two years.

She is an active member of the Science Club, the Photography Club and the Secondary Honors Program and also is a Guidance Office student worker.

Gov. James Thompson addressed the Girl Staters at one point during the week-long program, which ended June 20. The governor congratulated the delegates and gave further information on the function of various government offices.

Kimberly Joyce, last year's Unit 113 Girl State representative, was valedictorian of the 1987 graduating class at Granite City High School, the local chairman said.

Also attending the auxiliary's meeting last week was Allison Dumoulin, a Granite City High School freshman, who was chosen to receive the American Legion Award this year, Durbin said.

Legislators, judges given salary raises

SPRINGFIELD — Area state legislators and judges received pay increases July 1 as the second phase of raises under last year's state Compensation Review Board plan went into effect.

The officials received the first phase of their raises on Jan. 1. The annual salary of Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, increased from $41,800 to $43,390, of which $8,229 is an extra stipend for his House majority leader duties.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, will now receive the legislative base pay of $35,661, up from the previous $33,902. The salary of Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, increased from $40,232 to $42,245, including $6,584 for being Senate Democratic caucus chairman.

The salary of Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlisle, will not increase as much because he is in the middle of a four-year term and the state constitution bars (base pay) increases during a term.

Because of an increase in his assistant majority leader's stipend, Demuzio's overall pay increases from $38,770 to $39,084. Except for senators in midterm, the legislative base pay increases average 9.7 percent for the two steps this year.

Judges are getting a similar percentage increase. Circuit judges' salaries are increasing from $76,235 to $80,900.

Associate circuit judges are getting a pay hike from $71,060 to $74,613.

Phone charges increase, long-distance cost down

As part of a plan to keep telephone rates reasonably priced in the future, the monthly supplemental line charge paid by Illinois Bell residence and single-line business telephone customers increased 60 cents from $2 to $2.60 on July 1.

The adjustment is part of a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) plan, adopted in 1984, to price total and long-distance calls closer to the cost of providing each service.

The $2.60 supplemental line charge will replace part of the subsidy for local telephone lines historically built into out-of-state long distance rates, allowing the long distance rates to decrease.

Illinois Bell revenues won't change because the 60-cent increase is offset by the decrease in revenue the company receives from long-distance companies.

"The 60-cent increase will be more than offset by eventual savings for all customers—including those who don't make long-distance calls," said Fred K. Konrad, Illinois Bell assistant vice president.

Illinois Bell's multi-line business customers already are paying the full $3.90 per line necessary to replace the subsidy from long distance rates, so no further increase is necessary.

The $3.90 charged by Illinois Bell is among the lowest in the country—well below the $6 charge allowed by the FCC.

"Illinois Bell's charge is considerably less than the national average because our costs of providing service are much lower," Konrad said.

He said the adjustment will keep local telephone rates down and is a big step toward cost-based pricing, which will prevent the loss of customers.

"Keeping all our customers on the public network by charging fair, cost-based rates is the best way to ensure the continuation of reasonably-priced local service," Konrad said.

Class of 1936 presents donation to school

Joe Lucido

The Granite City High School graduating class of 1936 has presented a donation of $250 to Hospice of Madison County. The contribution came from funds collected at the 50-year class reunion held last fall.

Hospice of Madison County, a department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, is a program of home care for the terminally ill and their families.

It offers physical, emotional, social and spiritual support to patients with six months or less to live.

Hospice of Madison County is licensed by Illinois as a full-service program, and is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) for high-quality care.

It is certified by Medicare to offer hospice benefits to Medicare patients. It serves the communities of Madison County and areas in the surrounding counties of Bond, Clinton, Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery and St. Clair.

Penalties for stealing surplus food increase

"Theft and illegal use of federal surplus food commodities has just become a riskier business," said Edward T. Duffy, director of the Illinois Department of Public Aid, in announcing unanimous approval by the General Assembly of House Bill 2290.

The Department of Public Aid has the responsibility for administration and distribution of federal surplus food commodities in Illinois. Public Aid contracts with more than 2,000 non-profit agencies such as churches, community organizations and local governmental units for distribution of these commodities.

Each month the department distributes more than 4.5 million pounds of surplus cheese, honey, dry milk, flour, cornmeal, rice and butter throughout the state.

"Illegal trafficking and sales of commodities are becoming an increasing problem in the state," Duffy said. "I'm delighted that the General Assembly through this bill has addressed this problem and taken such a strong stand."

Senate sponsor, Frank Watson, R-Greenview, said, "In five years since the program was initiated, the state has lost $450,000 in federal surplus food and there is nothing currently in the state's statutes to prevent such illegal activities. HB 2290 provides the needed state law to fight the problem of fraud and abuse."

"Illinois state's attorneys are anxious to prosecute people who are ripping off this program, but have been unable to prosecute due to the lack of state law," said House sponsor, Rep. Edward F. Petka, R-Plainfield.

Approximately 300,000 households per month receive free surplus government food through programs sponsored jointly by the Department of Public Aid and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

16-foot handicapped parking spaces voted

Parking spaces for the disabled would be widened, and posted warnings would tell motorists they face a $50 fine for misusing the spaces, under a bill proposed by Secretary of State Jim Edgar, approved by the Illinois Senate last week and now awaiting the governor's approval.

"Handicapped parking laws have greatly increased the mobility of people with disabilities and the accessibility of public places. We hope this bill will make a good law even better," Edgar said.

Senate Bill 832, approved 57-0.

Granite City police

Service station arrests

Hearing a radio message from a Madison County deputy calling for assistance at 11:50 p.m. July 7, a Granite City patrolman responded to the Mobile Service Station, Nameoki Road and St. Clair Avenue, where Deputy Gerald Owens was struggling with John R. Munoz, 18, of 3008 Madison Ave. Owens said that Munoz started giving him problems when the deputy was attempting to arrest a second man, David M. Deshasier, 19, of 2909 Maryville Road.

Deshasier was lying on the ground when local police arrived. While trying to roll him over, he began swinging his arms and kicking at the officers, they alleged. The incident began when Munoz and Deshasier were in the service station and allegedly refused to leave, though told several times to do so by a woman employee, she said. Owens, who also was at the station, advised the men to go or face arrest.

While walking from the building, the pair began yelling and screaming and called the woman an obscene name and cursed the deputy, reports said. The problem escalated when he tried to arrest Deshasier and Munoz objected, Owens said.

Munoz was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and obstructing an officer. Deshasier was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

A vandal smashed two plexiglass windows in front of Lorries Arcade, 825 Niedringhaus Ave., Lorraine Brooks reported July 8. A piece of concrete was found inside the building. An investigation is continuing.

Arrested in Wilson Park

Called to a July 2 disturbance in Wilson Park, officers arrested Ronald Glenn O'Brien, 18, of 16 Jones Park, Pontoon Beach, for battery and disorderly conduct. Paul Wilson, 2231 Lee Ave., was struck in the nose during the disturbance.

Curt Brady Haeffner, 17, of 13 Tulip Ave., Pontoon Beach, also in the area, allegedly began using profanity and was charged with disorderly conduct.

O'Brien was released, pending a hearing, after posting $154 cash bail.

Daniel W. Pritchard, 21, of 2404 Canal Ave., was arrested July 7 in the 2100 block of E. 24th Street on a body attachment warrant alleging failure to appear at a hearing on a charge of battery. He was released on posting $55 cash bail, pending a court appearance.

Terry Edward McQueen, 28, of Glen Carbon, found lying on the sidewalk near the Farm Fresh store, 2230 Pontoon Road, was charged July 8 with unlawful use of a weapon when a small green canvas bag in his possession was allegedly found to contain a .44 caliber magnum revolver and six hollow point live rounds of ammunition.

He posted $102 bail and was released, pending a court appearance.

Beer in car is alleged

Daniel V. Sego, 25, of 2412 Illinois Ave., was charged with driving without a valid driver license, illegal transportation of alcohol and making an improper turn. His vehicle was stopped by police at 1:45 a.m. July 3 on West Pontoon Road at Braden Avenue.

Open cans of beer allegedly were in the station wagon, plus beer in a cooler. Passengers in the vehicle, all charged with illegal possession of alcohol, were Martin J. Broadhurst, 20, of 2412 Illinois Ave., Sandra K. Broadhurst, 19, of 1737 Edison Ave., and Dennis J. Doty, 19, of the 1700 block of Edison Avenue. All were released, pending appearances.

Missouri man arrested

Daniel Lindell Pinson, 25, of St. George, Mo., was charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and battery when found sleeping in a truck in the 2800 block of West 22nd Street July 2.

An officer alleged Pinson refused to answer questions, used profanity and started reaching beneath the seat of the vehicle. When the patrolman held the man's shoulder to see what he was doing, Pinson allegedly grabbed the officer's arm, pushing him in the chest and face. Pinson was pulled from the vehicle and arrested.

Items with an estimated total value of $312 were stolen from the flatbed tractor-trailer truck of Lloyd C. Lenard of Staunton, Ill., while the vehicle was parked at 20th Street and Sherman Avenue, he reported July 2. Taken were four chains, binders, coil racks and a large tarpaulin.

Briefcase, cash missing

Nancy Guetherman of Collinsville may have left a maroon-colored briefcase on the sidewalk in the 1800 block of State Street while she unlocked her car door and then drove away without it, she reported July 8.

The missing $250 leather case, inscribed with the initials — NJG — contained $900 cash and assorted papers, she said.

Two autos ransacked

Two cars parked in the driveway at the home of Mark Whitehead, 2874 Ralph St., were ransacked and a remote control garage door opener was stolen from a 1986 station wagon, he reported July 9.

Papers missing from the glove box of a 1987 Chevrolet were later found in an alley by a police officer. The auto burglar used the control device to open the garage door, but nothing appeared to be missing, Whitehead said.

Burglar gets purse

A black purse containing $10, food stamps worth $17 and assorted identification papers was taken July 8 from the apartment of Theresa Weinberger, 306 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Vandal damages auto

Considerable damage to a 1987 Plymouth Horizon was caused by a vandal who may have walked on the vehicle while it was parked at Niedringhaus Avenue and Chestnut Street, Kathy Weatherford, 2265 Delmar Ave., the owner, told police July 8.

The car's rear window and side mirror were smashed, two doors were kicked inward and the hood was scratched. The culprit may have cut himself in the process as blood was found on the broken glass, police said.

Retail theft charges

Following her arrest July 8 on a retail theft charge at Gasen Drugs in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center, Lenora I. Jeffries, 17, of 402 Jefferson St., Lovejoy, allegedly had costume jewelry from the Granite City K mart store in her possession and was booked on a second charge of retail theft. She allegedly removed cosmetics from Gasen Drugs without paying for the items, reports said.

Law officers cool to tax on pushers

A proposal to force drug dealers to pay a tax on marijuana and other controlled substances drew a lukewarm reaction from area law enforcement officials recently.

Jersey County State's Attorney Les Plummer said few dealers would be likely to pay the tax before they sell substances such as marijuana, heroin or cocaine, but it may help enforcement officials seize profits from drug sales.

"I don't know what the thinking was behind it," said Plummer, but he guessed it may be a means of hitting drug dealers "in the pocketbook."

The House approved the tax on controlled substances June 26 and sent the measure to Gov. James Thompson. The bill is patterned after a Minnesota law.

It would require dealers of more than 30 ounces of marijuana or more than five ounces of any other illegal controlled substance to buy tax stamps from the Illinois Department of Revenue and attach them to their bundles of drugs.

The tax would be $5 per gram of marijuana and $250 per gram of any other controlled substance, such as cocaine or heroin.

Madison County Sheriff Bob Church said he has mixed feelings about the proposal.

"It depends on how the law is written," said Church, who was on an anti-drug task force appointed by Speaker of House Michael Madigan.

He said the tax may lend a false air of legitimacy to the sale of drugs.

"It may be seen as a license to sell drugs. If it's not all right, why has the state enacted a tax, then reasoning may go, Church said.

On the other hand, it may give law enforcement officials a stronger hand in dealing with pushers, once they are arrested. The penalty for the tax violation may be stiffer than the penalty for possession or sale of the drugs, Church said.

He added that he does not like the confidentiality clause of the law in which purchasers of the tax stamps are guaranteed anonymity.

Frederick Hess, U.S. attorney for Southern Illinois, said the bill would not come under his jurisdiction and federal law does not require such a stamp.

He does not see the need for such a law on the federal level, but believes some states have enacted such laws to make it easier to seize the assets of convicted drug dealers.

Pratt has checklist for state law course

Paul L. Pratt, an associate with the East Alton firm of Pratt & Callis, P.C., has developed the "P.E.L.A. (Plaintiff) Checklist" for the 1987 edition of Illinois Civil Discovery Practice, to be published by the Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education.

Pratt is a member and past president of the Madison County and Alton-Wood River bar associations and serves on the board of managers of the Illinois Trial Lawyers Association.

A member of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, he is a member of the Inner Circle of Advocates, an association limited to 100 trial lawyers in the United States. Pratt received his B.A. degree from Illinois College, Jacksonville, and his law degree from the University of Illinois.

The Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education is the non-profit continuing education service of the Illinois State and Chicago bar associations, and Illinois law schools. For over 25 years, HCLE has been the primary continuing legal education in Illinois, offering a wide range of books and courses for practitioners to use throughout their careers.

Assault, trespass charges

Charles Grant Widel, 23, of 4042 Kathy Drive, Pontoon Beach, was charged with assault, criminal trespass to property and criminal damage to property at 12:23 a.m. July 9, relating to an incident occurring at 2205 Elm Ave.

Tracy Alfaro, a resident at the Elm address, said a car slowly moved the house door after she went outside and asked the occupants to leave she was going to call police, she said.

Widel, a passenger, asked racist questions, Alfaro alleged, then moved to the house door after she went inside. Another man stood in the front yard, she said.

Widel picked up an outdoor chair and allegedly broke the glass in a storm door and also made a threatening remark to Alfaro, she said.

Widel Beach officers located the vehicle and Widel was arrested.

Granite City police

Conduct charge filed

After being sent away from two other locations where residents were becoming alarmed, Fred Edward Oliver, 59, address unknown, allegedly was shouting obscenities in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue and was charged July 8 with disorderly conduct.

Household items gone

A 19-inch television valued at $200, a vacuum cleaner worth $80 and an air conditioner valued at $50 were taken from the home of Lisa Hardester, 2114 Missouri Ave., she reported July 8.

Home invader sought

Police are continuing their efforts to find a man, whose face was masked with a nylon stocking, who forced his way into the apartment of a Granite City woman in the early morning hours of July 4.

The intruder held a knife and demanded the woman, who is in her middle 20s, remove her clothing. The woman resisted and the assailant fled from the apartment.

The assailant was about 5.5 feet tall and weighed 140 pounds. He was wearing a grey jogging-style jacket and jeans, the victim said.

Youths damage new cars

Several youths seen jumping from one car to another at John Novotny Chevrolet, 1511 Niedringhaus Ave., caused considerable damage to 10 vehicles, it was reported July 9.

The vandals damaged the hoods on eight 1987 Spectrums and caused damage to hoods and fenders on two other 1987 Spectrums, Don Fricke reported.

Lawn mower removed

A $127 lawn mower was stolen July 9 from the rear yard at the home of John Moore, 2916 Buxton Ave.

To keep valuables handy, safe learn how to outsmart burglar

Your estate is growing, theft is increasing in many areas and insurance costs more, so you are wondering where to keep important documents and valuable items. The Missouri Society of CPAs suggests you consider a home safe, a bank safe deposit box or a private security vault company.

A few years ago, if your valuables were stolen you could recover a portion of the value by deducting some of the loss on your income tax return. Under current tax laws, if you itemize, you can deduct only casualty losses of personal-use property that exceed 10 percent of your adjusted gross income and only after subtracting $100 from each loss.

Some of the losses could be recouped through your homeowner's insurance, which typically places a limit of $500 or $1,000, depending on the policy, on high-value items such as watches and jewelry. For an extra cost, a special personal items rider normally would enable you to recover the full market value of a stolen item.

To keep valuable items safe and close, much depends on just how many items you have, how valuable they are and how often you need to use them.

Many people possess a modest collection of necklaces, bracelets or earrings, plus a few valuable rugs and an expensive watch or two. Add to these items negotiable securities and perhaps cash or travelers' checks, plus important documents such as birth certificates, passports, insurance policies, bills of sale and deeds. For those who want to keep all these items safe from fire or theft, a home safe may be the answer.

Start with a phone call to the Better Business Bureau, police department or any local consumer group that could help you find a competent home safe dealer. The dealer will help you decide what type of safe is needed and what level of security is necessary.

Decide early if you need a fire-resistant safe, a burglary-resistant safe or one that satisfies both requirements.

Fire-resistant safes are graded for their ability to maintain interior temperatures for certain periods of time. Underwriters Laboratories (UL), for example, refers to fire-resistant safes as one-, two-, three-, or four-hour safes. Most, however, will not foil a burglar for very long.

Safes providing security may offer little resistance to high temperatures but will discourage a burglar. These safes are rated according to the time it takes for a burglar to break in using common tools.

Some safes guard against both fire and burglary.

The most common types of safes fit into a wall or are buried in basement floors. A typical wall unit, about 10 square inches, might cost less than $200, plus approximately $50 to $75 for installation. Prices can increase sharply, depending on size and quality.

If you have some valuable items, or items that are not used frequently, you might want to consider a bank safe-deposit box. For about $20 a year, you can rent a box 2 by 5 by 22 inches. Finding available space, however, may be difficult.

For those who don't want to wait for a bank deposit box, a private security vault firm may be the answer. Although more expensive than bank boxes, they offer 24-hour access, more sizes to choose from and often provide better temperature and humidity control.

Many private firms offer better security features—such as more up-to-date identification procedures and fire-suppression systems.

Prices vary from city to city, but the cost should be $50 to $150 a year for a 3-by-5-by-24-inch box. But renting space from a security vault company to store valuables could lower the cost of personal items' insurance rider, if you have one, because valuables are safer there than in your home.

Finding a safe place for your valuables should allow you to rest easier. As you sort out valuables and important papers, take this opportunity to contact a CPA and together review the entire estate, the society suggests.

Budget for construction slim

SPRINGFIELD — Legislators sent a lean budget for new non-road construction work to Gov. James Thompson June 30, with Alton Mental Health Center (AMHC) — the only state facility in this area scheduled for work.

A total of $785,000 was included for roof replacement and fire safety systems at AMHC.

Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, said nearly all House members, including him, had agreed not to put pet projects on the state's Capital Development Board (CDB) funding bill this year because of the state's financial problems.

He said they agreed to sacrifice "pork (barrel)" for their districts rather than vote for tax hikes. McPike, for example, earlier in the session proposed $1.1 million for re-creating the fort of explorers Lewis and Clark, but tabled it as part of the "no member add-on agreement." The site is at Mitchell.

Only a scaled-down list of capital projects sought by the governor were included in the CDB appropriation, including the AMHC money.

Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, earlier attempted to put $4.7 million in construction funds for the Art and Design Building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on the CDB budget. He dropped it at the request of Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Sen. Howard Carroll, D-Chicago.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Rep. Woody Bowman, D-Chicago, noted the CDB budget has been for several sessions "Christmas tree" for members' pet projects.

"This year there are no member add-ons and the tree is stripped bare," Bowman said.

Senate closes door on plant closing bill

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Senate on June 25 slammed the door on a bill requiring 90-day advance notice to employees of plant closings.

The bill was the biggest target of business groups and the top priority of labor unions this session, with one senator describing the debate as a "shoot-out."

When it was over, the business groups narrowly won, with the bill coming up one vote short of the 30 needed for passage. Sens. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, and Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, both voted for it.

Senators supporting the bill contended it would give workers more of an opportunity to find new jobs and possibly even keep the plant open through the consultation procedures it required.

Sponsor Sen. Glen Poshard, D-Carlinville, cited a federal study that the average notice to blue-collar workers in plant closings was only two weeks and "one third receive no notice at all."

He argued it also would lower unemployment compensation costs by giving workers more lead time to find new jobs.

But opponents contended it would instead result in fewer jobs, as plant owners would lose suppliers, customers and experienced employees during the 90-day notice period, preventing any chance of reconsidering.

They also argued it would discourage investment in the state or sales of troubled plants to new owners.

More money earned by state, says Burris

The state's bank account gained $474 million in new revenues during the fiscal year, an increase of 4.5 percent over last year, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported July 2.

Total General Fund revenues for fiscal 1987 were $11,037 billion, 4.5 percent higher than the total $10,583 billion in fiscal 1986. For comparison, total revenues in fiscal 1986 were $266 million higher than in fiscal 1985.

Revenues from state sources were $9,462 million in fiscal 1987, $446 million more than in the previous fiscal year. The major portion of this increase was due to a 13.3 percent growth in individual income taxes.

General Funds expenditures in fiscal 1987 were $11,191 billion, $417 million more than the $10,774 billion spent in fiscal 1986.

The year-end balance of $154 million was $134 million less than the $288 million at the end of fiscal 1986.

The state's Road Fund, meanwhile, ended the fiscal year with a balance of $290 million, $72 million more than last year's $218 million record-setting year-end balance.

Thompson gets 'overweight' farm truck bill

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to permit farm trucks used to haul grain during the harvest season to exceed legal weight limits was sent to Gov. James Thompson on June 24.

The Senate approved the measure originally introduced by Rep. Tom Ryder, R-Jerseyville, and sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville.

The two said they had received complaints from farmers in their districts about the current law requiring them to get advance permits from the Illinois Department of Transportation each time they wanted to run a truck exceeding the weight limit to an elevator.

Sen. John Davidson, R-Springfield, objected that the bill could pose a threat to rural bridges because IDOT would no longer be checking bridges crossed by the grain trucks to be sure they could stand the heavier weights.

Demuzio responded that the bill would not permit farm truck operators to exceed the posted bridge weight limits.

WE ACCEPT PERSONAL CHECKS

Session basically pleases legislators

SPRINGFIELD — Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, said legislators were given the choice this session of raising taxes or keeping spending in line and most favored the latter.

As House Majority Leader, McPike was one of the key architects of the final budget sent to the governor and the decision to not include the traditional pork barrel or legislator local additions to the appropriations bills.

"There is no pork in this budget because there is no money for it," he said.

He said among the requests from his own district he had to reject this spring was another $1 million for Lewis & Clark Community College, $600,000 for sewage treatment and $1.1 million to recreate the fort of explorers George Rogers Lewis and Meriwether Clark in Wood River.

"We asked the members in our caucus when they said they wouldn't support a tax increase; they were personally willing to go home with no pork?" and the answer was yes."

McPike also initiated a critical study of the governor's Build Illinois program, which Thompson had frequently touted during his re-election campaign last fall. As part of his tax proposal, the governor had sought to substantially expand the program.

McPike said he convinced House Speaker Michael Madigan and House Republican leader Les McCarson the program should be curtailed except for projects already promised last year. The House also "decided against any expansion of Build Illinois," he said.

Although he disavowed any "pork" in the budget this year, McPike noted that the Illinois Department of Transportation agreed earlier this spring to provide $100,000 for lighting the Homer Adams Parkway in Alton out of its existing budget after McPike had introduced an appropriations bill at the request of parkway businessmen.

Sen. Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville, started the session under unusual circumstances. He was sworn in for his 21st year in the General Assembly in January at his home in Edwardsville rather than in the Statehouse because he was recuperating from a December heart bypass surgery.

Traditionally one of the most popular sponsors in other years, Vadala deliberately carried a light load this session for health reasons.

Vadala described the session as "unusual" and expressed frustration at the lack of attention to spending state money for "roads, bridges and new construction."

Vadala was clearly frustrated at the inability to get funding for some local projects he had been working on this spring. He said legislative budget kingpins, including McPike took a "no add-on" position on capital projects not in the governor's budget.

Vadala said he had arranged several meetings with village of Harford officials to get funding for a new separate storm water sewer system to alleviate a problem of basement flooding with raw sewage. He said he was "very disappointed" funding was not included in bills sent to the governor.

"However, that will be one of my top priorities next time," he added.

Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, said he was unhappy more state funding could not have been provided school districts this session but "there just wasn't any support here for tax increases."

The light budget approved by the legislature also left unresolved the problems of many small communities who are faced with a federal mandate to make expensive sewage treatment improvements, Demuzio added.

"There's no doubt there are going to be considerable hardships in some of these communities," he said.

He was in negotiations to try to come up with grant funds for some of the smallest and poorest communities with big sewage treatment needs but "they broke down throughout the process because there were no tax hikes."

Instead the only help sent to the governor was his bill to set up a revolving loan program.

Otherwise, Demuzio said it was a "good environmental session" citing his package of bills to further crack down on illegal hazardous waste dumpers. Demuzio has made hazardous waste bills one of his specialties since the Illinois controversy erupted in his district in 1977.

Rep. Tom Ryder of Jerseyville said he found the session "disappointing because we had the opportunity to deal with some major issues in a non-crisis atmosphere and it didn't happen."

Although a major package on health "aging out" mentally disabled persons sponsored by Ryder and House GOP leader Daniels was sent to the governor, the issue would not make it possible to fund much of it, he said.

The package is intended to help mentally disabled persons age 22 and over.

Ryder also sponsored bills aimed at giving more attention to the problems of homeless mentally ill persons who are rejected by mental health centers and said it was unfortunate more funds weren't available in that area.

But he said he generally supported the spending constraint showed by the legislature this spring in the absence of support for tax hikes.

A lot of folks in my district think the spring session was a good thing. Overall it's a good budget and a tight budget, Ryder said.

Rep. Gary Hannig, D-Bell, had flatly opposed any state tax increases from the start this session and urged the General Assembly for "putting our foot on the brakes for both taxes and spending."

"From the taxpayers' point of view we made the governor an honest man. He was perceived as being against a tax increase before the election by most people and we held him to that pledge."

Although Hannig said he believed the budget for operation of state agencies sent to the governor was adequate "my concern is he may be angry at the legislature and may take it out on the budgets and the people."

Among his own bills he considered significant the ones to require state agencies to purchase only domestic agricultural products, to expand a program to help displaced farmers find new jobs.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said he was "not surprised the governor's tax package went down the drain" and "a lot of legislators decided we didn't need it and the people have loud-ly no."

But he said he would be "surprised" if Thompson made unnecessary budget cuts to "retaliate."

Wolf indicated disappointment at the decision to virtually end Build Illinois.

CRASHED AND BURNED: The station wagon of Rick Lesko, 35, owner of Sullie's Liquor Store, 2260 Washington Ave., rests in a ditch off Illinois 162, one half mile east of Interstate 255, after it was struck head-on by an eastbound pickup truck Saturday morning. Seven people were injured in the crash including Lesko, who remains in serious condition at Missouri Baptist Hospital.

by helicopter from St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was initially treated.

Buchanan is listed in good condition at Anderson Hospital, Maryville, where he was taken by Granite City Fire Department ambulance. Granite City ambulance personnel assisted Long Lake firefighters and Campbell Ambulance Service with transporting the injured.

Riding with Lesko were his wife, Rose, 35, who was admitted to SEMC where she was treated and later discharged on July 13.

Also in the Lesko auto were Jennifer Lesko, 2, and Andrea Lesko, 4, who were admitted to SEMC where they remain in stable condition, and Mrs. Margaret Sisoian, 68, of Collinsville, mother of Rose Lesko. She was taken to Anderson Hospital, complaining of pain to all extremities. She was later transferred to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

A passenger in Buchanan's pickup truck, Dieder Durborn, 23, of Granite City, was in satisfactory condition at St. Louis University Hospital where she was taken by helicopter from SEMC.

No tickets were issued as of Tuesday morning, but Ponton Beach police were to question Buchanan and Lesko's family members about the accident.

should allow all candidates, however well-financed, to get their message across to the voters, he said.

Unlike 1986, when he was in the middle of a four-year term as auditor, Fields would have to forsake that position to be a candidate for Congress. He cannot run for both offices.

Henkhaus, elected in 1986, would remain county treasurer for another two years if he was unsuccessful in a Congressional bid.

Others who have been mentioned as possible contenders for the Democratic nomination include Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, Collinsville Mayor Gene J. Bromblich and East St. Louis Mayor Carl E. Officer.

Ellisville, Mayor Von Dee Cruse said. Some aldermen wanted to stipulate that Hadley must eventually move to Granite City in order to take the job. Cruse said that he didn't think the council should force Hadley to move into the city because Hadley's family had pending obligations in Ellisville.

The council did stipulate that the city's acting engineer, Ed Schulze, return to his original position and salary as motor fuel tax engineer.

His old salary was $26,600 in 1984, when Schulze was made acting engineer and given a 15 percent pay increase. Though Schulze's salary will revert back, he will receive all the yearly raises he would have qualified for under his old salary.

More judges authorized

A legislative package authorizing another circuit judge for Madison County and two more appellate justices for the 5th District was sent to Gov. James Thompson on June 30.

The measure barely passed the House with the minimum number of votes. Several members contended increasing the number of judges should have a low priority because of the tight state budget.

Sponsor of the measure, Rep. John Cullerton, D-Chicago, responded that since no funds have been authorized for the additional judicial positions in "This just recognizes the need for additional judgeships," he said.

Regional

Legislative winners...

If you own a home, buy a six-pack, use a credit card or have unpaid tickets, the work of the Illinois General Assembly could affect you.

Here is a summary of some of the major legislation sent to Gov. James R. Thompson, who must sign the bills before they become law:

Smoke Detectors: You would be required to have at least one smoke detector in your home or apartment by July of next year.

New and substantially remodeled homes would have to have a smoke detector before anyone moves in, and all other housing units would be required to have smoke detectors by July 1, 1988.

Pull Tabs: You won't have to worry about stepping on those metal pull-tabs from beverage cans for much longer because the Legislature voted to ban the sale of cans with detachable tabs after July 1988.

Credit Cards: You will be able to call the state Department of Financial Institutions to find out who has the cheapest credit-card interest rates in the state. Every company offering credit cards in Illinois would be required to report its rate to the department.

Smokeless Tobacco: Selling or giving free samples of smokeless tobacco to anyone under 18 years old would be outlawed. Violations would be punishable by a first-time penalty of between $100 and $500.

Seat Belt Law: Mandatory seat belts are still required, but police won't be able to pull you over just because you're not wearing them. The clarification would prohibit police from making a traffic stop solely on the basis that a driver or passenger is not wearing a seat belt.

Drunken Driving: Repeat drunken drivers would face some of the nation's toughest penalties. The new standards would impose a three-year revocation for a second offense and a six-year revocation for a third offense. A third conviction could bring up to three years in prison.

Education: Parents would be able to take advantage of state tax-exempt bonds to set aside money for their children's college education.

Multistate Lottery: You might be able to win lottery jackpots of up to $80 million after the Legislature authorized Illinois to participate in a proposed multistate lottery.

Cannabis Tax: You would be charged with tax evasion if you're caught selling marijuana and other controlled substances that you haven't bought a tax stamp for.

And losers

Many of the proposals that made headlines during the General Assembly's spring session never made it to the governor's desk. Here is a rundown on some of the big losers:

Seat Belts: An effort to unblock the state's mandatory seat-belt law stalled in the face of Gov. James R. Thompson's threat to veto the repealer. Opponents of the 2-year-old law said that it hasn't reduced traffic fatalities and that only about one-third of the state's motorists buckle up.

Motorcycle Helmets: Pressure from motorcyclists' groups put the brakes on a bill requiring bikers to wear helmets. Opponents echoed the arguments against the mandatory seat-belt law, saying a helmet requirement would violate freedom of choice and wouldn't necessarily reduce traffic deaths.

No Smoking: The tobacco industry snuffed out proposals to restrict smoking in public places. Supporters of the idea said it would not deny anyone the right to smoke and would protect non-smokers from exposure to second-hand smoke.

Comparable Worth: Legislation promoting pay equity for women in state jobs was narrowly rejected in both houses, but supporters of so-called "comparable worth" said they were encouraged by the close votes.

No Pass-No Play: Bills that would tighten academic standards for high school athletes went nowhere as lawmakers awaited a report from a special House-Senate committee on the General Assembly's role in establishing such standards.

Sexual Devices: A proposal to outlaw the retail sale of "obscene sexual devices" cleared the House but stalled in the Senate. The bill would have barred the retail sale of sexual paraphernalia unless a buyer had a doctor's prescription.

Dog Racing: A bill that would have allowed greyhound race tracks in Peoria and East St. Louis stumbled in the Senate after opponents said dog racing would compete with the state's financially ailing horse-racing industry.

Agency turns 110 July 12

One of the oldest state agencies, the Illinois Department of Public Health, will mark its 110th anniversary on July 12.

The department was established in 1877 beginning with three employees and a biennial budget of $5,000 to administer two new state laws. The Medical Practice Act required the licensing of medical practitioners, and the State Board of Health Act directed the new agency to promote sanitation.

Today, the department employs 1,244 people, administers an annual budget of more than $900 million and conducts more than 100 different programs and services, said Dr. Bernard J. Turnock, state health director.

Major department initiatives are AIDS control activities, including the "AIDS: Fact for Life" public education campaign; Families With a Future, an infant mortality reduction initiative; and Parents Too Soon, a campaign to avert pregnancies among teenagers.

Over the years, some responsibilities of the department have been spun off to create new agencies, such as the Department of Registration and Education (1916), the Environmental Protection Agency (1970) and the Department of Nuclear Safety (1980).

The 110th birthday will be observed on July 10 in the department's central offices in Springfield and at nine regional offices around the state.

In Springfield, Lydia Bering, the department's most senior employee, will join Turnock in cutting the cake. She has been employed by the agency since 1938.

Welfare reform legislation considered model

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. James R. Thompson believes passage of welfare reform legislation will make Illinois a model for similar efforts across the nation.

"This bill gives us the tools to break through the tragic barrier of a lifetime of public support," Thompson said as the legislative session ended. "The legislation expands welfare-to-work programs for the poor, strengthens Illinois' child support enforcement system, and provides support services for former welfare recipients who work, in order to keep them on the job."

The measure is a product of the Governor's Task Force on Welfare Reform and is intended to break the cycle of welfare dependency and encourage employment.

"There are too many unwilling participants in a welfare system that Illinois can no longer afford. And we no longer can afford a welfare system that tends to trap people, rather than helping them out of a cycle of dependency," Thompson said.

"Legislators supporting this package have taken positive steps on behalf of those stuck on the welfare treadmill."

"This was truly a bipartisan effort," said Public Aid Director Edward T. Duffy. "We recognized the problem, and everyone rolled up their shirtsleeves and went to work to fix it. The spirit of compromise between legislators, the administration and welfare advocates was outstand-

With an additional outlay of $22.3 million, the state expects to realize savings of $57.5 million in welfare costs.

A key element of the package is expansion of the Project Chance welfare-to-work program. Aimed at placing over 100,000 welfare recipients into permanent, full-time employment, it will serve as the cornerstone for welfare reform, proponents say.

"Project Chance has met with great success already, by placing over 75,000 recipients into jobs. They include not only recipients who have skills and can easily be placed, but also those who have been on welfare for years and had just about given up on ever finding a job. Now, we can expand Project Chance," Duffy said.

"With welfare reform we can now develop and implement innovative programs like grant diversion, which allows a recipient's grant to go to the employer

Additionally, medical assistance and day care benefits will be extended so that welfare recipients who have just left the welfare rolls to take jobs through Project Chance will be better equipped to stay on the job.

"We want Project Chance to serve as a bridge between welfare and the world of work,"

"When a welfare mother first takes a job, she is often faced with the possibility of going back on welfare because she is unable to pay for day care or medical care. Welfare reform will help prevent this from happening."

The reform package also involves restructuring of the General Assistance (GA) program in Chicago, the only GA program administered directly by the Illinois Department of Public Aid. That program, which stemmed from welfare programs started in the 1930s and earlier, currently provides for needy individuals and some families not eligible for federally-assisted programs.

Under welfare reform, most GA clients will be enrolled in programs which lead to employment. Those with special problems will participate in programs relating to alcohol and substance abuse, mental health, and homeless outreach.

"A good number of persons receiving General Assistance are men who, for one reason or another, have reached the end of the line," Duffy said. "Rather than just accepting their plight, or leaving them to languish on what is left of Skid Row, we are saying that every human being has a potential for something greater. With the right kind of help, something greater can be accomplished."

The Department of Public Aid will also help disabled clients and others in applying for federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits.

"There is no reason why someone who has a disability should have to suffer because a federal program is bogged down in red tape or paperwork" Thompson

"Likewise, there is no reason that state taxpayers should have to dig in their pockets to help someone who is entitled to be helped through a program operated by the federal government."

"We've brought that up to the point that we are now ranked 12th in the nation. With this reform package, we will move to sixth with an increase of $25 million in collections.

Health care

FIRST ANNIVERSARY. At-Home Professional Care, a service of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, celebrated its first anniversary. The service has 20 clients. Alfred C. Stoever, of Granite City, was the first client of At-Home Professional Care. Gathering around Stoever and his wife, Helen, are (from left to right): Janice Khirno, R.N., Home Health; certified nurse aides Cathiann Barker, Marsha Turner, Lee Mitcherson and Jo Ann Farless, all from At-Home Professional Care; and Barb Donahue, At-Home supervisor.

At-Home Professional Care marks anniversary

GRANITE CITY — At-Home Professional Care, a service of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, recently helped a patient, Alfred C. Stoever, celebrate his 80th birthday by throwing a party in his honor.

A few months later, on July 1, the At-Home service was busy celebrating an anniversary of its own — its first.

Stoever is recognized as At-Home Professional Care's first client. Today, 20 persons receive the service.

Since the service began, Stoever has been receiving daily care from At-Home Professional Care. Certified nurses aides (CNA), Home Health registered nurses also provide him with weekly care in his home near Wilson Park, where Stoever lives with his wife, Helen.

Besides personal and medical care, Stoever and his wife receive plenty of companionship from the aides and nurses who visit their home.

"I feel they're not just coming here to do a job," Mrs. Stoever said. "They're here to make us feel good. They've become just like family to us."

"We have no relatives around here. They're kind of taken the place of our relatives. They're a very caring group. I guess you can say they've adopted us."

The original four CNAs who care for Stoever — Jo Ann Farless, Cathiann Barker, Marsha Turner and Lee Mitcherson — have been part of the At-Home Professional Care staff since its inception. Since that time, other At-Home Professionals have also helped care for Stoever.

"We're a very close-knit group," Farless said. "We do everything for the patient. We try to make it like a home environment. He's taken care of around the clock."

While Barker and Turner provide care for Stoever during the day, Farless and Mitcherson attend to his needs during the evening and night.

"I needed somebody to help take care of him," Mrs. Stoever said. "It was the best break I'd ever had when I got this service. It's just been fine. They all seem to have a personal interest in care at heart."

Mrs. Stoever's husband is a past director of utilities at Granite City Steel, as well as a member of SEMC's Lay Advisory Board for 25 years. He was president of the board on twice.

Cities need AIDS plan

Members of the Madison County Council of Mayors were told July 1 to have a plan for dealing with AIDS when the virus hits a city worker.

"You will feel compassion. You will want to help the family," attorney Dean Sweet told the gathering of mayors and other city officials.

"It will be someone you know, a fireman or a policeman, and they will contract the virus through the mishandling of blood or some other non-sexual or non-drug use means."

Sweet, former Wood River city attorney who now represents school districts, told members that "crisis dealing" won't work.

"When you get your first (AIDS) victim, the word will get out. You're going to get flack and you're going to have to be prepared to deal with it."

"I'm disappointed that the state has not taken the lead (to outline procedures for communities when AIDS strikes)," he said.

"Some states have mandated procedures for schools, cities and businesses to follow," he said, "but here, you will have to have a plan of your own."

"You need to have preventive measures in place before it happens and you need to have a plan when it does."

"You will be confronted with the rights of the individual versus the rights of the fellow workers."

"When a city worker gets AIDS and you let the information out, then you've gone public and you'll be subject to a lawsuit by the AIDS victim and his family. If you conceal the information, then other employees, if they find out, will feel that they should have been told and you may wind up in court there, too."

He said it is a dilemma that even unions don't know how to handle.

So far, the courts have favored the individual. The employer, the city must show just cause for dismissal. The problem with dismissing an employee with AIDS is that you won't be able to find a doctor who is able to testify in your favor.

"No one will testify today that casual contact causes AIDS. If you fire an AIDS victim, you'll be in court having to provide cause-and-effect evidence, and there is no evidence, to date, on your side. You'll lose."

"That means the employee will be reinstated and now you are faced with having to say that everything is safe, when you've already made a statement that it's not (by firing the individual)."

Sweet said the courts are behind on the issue. He said the Supreme Court has not dealt with an AIDS case yet, because no case has gone that far.

"When a case does get that far, the ruling will likely be in favor of the AIDS victim. The Supreme Court has ruled in a hepatitis case, and it ruled that hepatitis is a handicap. The worker was reinstated after being fired."

"I feel the court will rule that way, but I also feel that the court will swing toward protecting the public once there is a public outcry. It's projected that even if there are no new cases from now on, by 1991 there will be 175,000 deaths attributed to AIDS."

"Vietnam killed 55,000 and there was a public outcry. I'm convinced that laws will change to favor society."

Sweet suggested to the mayors that a plan to protect city workers be developed.

"There are a number of organizations that will train police, firemen and emergency workers in the precautions to take: the use of rubber gloves, masks, etc."

"You need to assume, now, that you have a city worker with AIDS and make a plan. Get a physician on your team who will help determine whether a victim should be at work or at school."

"There are some cases in which the courts will protect society. They include cases in which the victim has open lesions or where a child is a biter."

He suggested cities draw up guidelines that can be used so that when an AIDS case is discovered, panic won't determine the actions a city takes.

On another matter, Sweet suggested that a future conference deal with a recent California ruling affecting city zoning laws across the country.

"... There is concern and perhaps we should address the ruling at a special seminar in the fall," he said.

Shock by telephone could be life-saver

The patient's heartbeat scribbles a strange, irregular line on the monitor.

Apply the paddles.

Clear!

Deliver an electrical shock which forces the heart into a normal rhythm.

Watch the monitor for the return of a regular rhythm.

Imagine this familiar drama of defibrillating an ailing heart being carried out with the patient at home, the doctor at the hospital, and the shock being triggered via a telephone hookup through a brief case-like device that talks.

This kind of set-up is now being tested for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration by Rodolph Ruffly, M.D., director of the Arrhythmia Service at Jewish Hospital at Washington University Medical Center.

In a pilot study of this device called Medphone, nine patients were successfully treated in the hospital using the Medphone base station in one room and the patient unit several rooms away. The base station provides voice communications with the patient, plus a cardiac monitor and an electrocardiogram printed read-out.

The patient unit, which looks like a briefcase on the outside, contains a voice synthesizer which gives the patient or bystander directions on how to use it. The case plugs into an electrical outlet and into a telephone line via a modular jack.

When the self-adhesive electrodes are hooked up to the patient, the doctor at the base station can monitor the patient, decide whether a shock is appropriate, and trigger an appropriate level of shock by sending a signal through the telephone line.

Ruffly said this device has the potential to be a large improvement over the current home units which are fully automated; the machine makes the decision to shock or not without human input.

"That's a big decision for a machine to make, and they have problems distinguishing electrical noise from an abnormal heart rhythm. That's why medical interpretation is so important," he said.

By adding a seasoned medical judgment to the decision, Medphone has the possibility of becoming a useful device for helping patients with heart rhythm problems who are being evaluated for appropriate treatment — which may take several weeks until the optimum solution is found.

While many of these patients spend that time in the hospital — often just being monitored — this device may provide a safe, effective, and less costly alternative by providing effective monitoring and emergency treatment capability at home, Ruffly said.

Heart rhythm problems, or arrhythmias, are common heart problems which can be managed with drugs, surgical treatment, or electronic devices.

"During an episode, the heart may evolve to a disorganized state," Ruffly said. "Instead of beating regularly, it quivers like a bag of worms, losing all pumping function."

In some patients, maintaining normal heart function can be accomplished by implanting a pacemaker or an internal defibrillator.

In some patients, maintaining normal heart function can be accomplished by implanting a pacemaker or an internal defibrillator, which is placed under the skin of the abdomen, monitors the heart continuously and delivers a shock when it detects an abnormal rhythm. While this device can be lifesaving for people with Sudden Cardiac Death Syndrome, implanting it still requires a major chest operation, therefore limiting its use in fragile patients.

In addition, it has the unfortunate side effect of delivering shocks inappropriately in about one out of five patients, based on a Jewish Hospital study.

Nevertheless, the device has made the difference in saving lives in nearly 30 percent of the study group. Jewish Hospital was one of the first in the country to use the implantable defibrillator, and has implanted more than 40 since 1982.

While the permanent implantation of such devices may be the ultimate choice for some patients, the Medphone device may be able to provide an interim measure of security until the best treatment method can be determined.

"For example, a person who has had a large heart attack goes through a period of recovery which may be unstable," Ruffly said. "Instead of having to make definitive decisions early in evolution — we may be able to wait until the healing process is completed and then attack the chronic problem."

Alcohol, swimming don't mix

People go to the recreation areas at Carlyle Lake to enjoy the scenery, sun, and water. However, a combination of sun, water and alcohol can be deadly.

The Army Corps of Engineers stated alcohol can make non-swimmers out of swimmers. Alcohol is reported to play a significant contributing role in drownings and other water accidents. Some estimates report that 50 percent of all drowning victims over the age of 11 may have been legally drunk. However, one must remember that even the smallest amount of alcohol in the bloodstream may take down a swimmer.

Although alcohol has been used since about 8000 B.C., there are still many myths about alcohol that are not true: Myth: Beer is less intoxicating than wine or distilled liquor.

Fact: One 12 oz. beer contains the same amount of alcohol as 4 ounces of 12 percent wine or 1½ ounces of 86 proof liquor.

Myth: Diluting hard liquor shows the absorption rate.

Fact: Diluting an alcoholic beverage with water or fruit juice slows absorption. Mixing alcohol with a carbonated beverage increases absorption and intoxicates you more quickly.

Myth: A jump in the water, coffee, physical activity, or fresh air will sober you up.

Fact: Cold water and coffee will only produce a clean, wide-awake drunk. Only your liver can detoxify alcohol. For each drink you consume, it takes approximately two hours to sober up.

Alcohol affects the ability to function in three critical ways: Balance, judgment, and reaction time are affected almost immediately.

Alcohol's effect on balance can be critical on a boat. When "tipsy," the unstable, moving platform of the boat can easily cause a boater to fall overboard. The alcohol also reduces the body's ability to protect against the cold water. Within minutes, the victim may not be able to call for help, swim to a float, or reach the safety of the boat.

Alcohol also intensifies the effects of caloric labyrinthitis, a term for the disorientation caused by water entering the ear. A drunk person whose head is immersed can become so confused that he swims down to death instead of up to safety.

This is why some good swimmers who have been drinking suddenly drown when they are in reason. Alcohol also reduces inhibitions, causing normally cautious people to try stunts or enter high-risk situations a sober person would avoid.

Children found White House to be their home sweet home

A sad little girl arrived in November of 1800 at the door of her new home. Susanna Adams, granddaughter of President John and Abigail Adams, was the first child to reside in the building known today as the White House. Abigail's son, Charles, lay near death. The sorrowing first lady decided to bring his 4-year-old daughter to live in the "President's House" in the new capital at Washington.

The "first home" has sound sandstone walls that have withstood British enemy fire and the ravages of time, but they have not been thick enough to insulate its occupants, even the youngest, from the pain felt by ordinary mortals.

Over the years, first families have harbored familiar heartaches and known familiar joys. But a White House child's birth, growing pains, peccadilloes, grief, romances, marriage and death are shared with the multitude. The stone White House might just as well be made of glass.

Young Nelly, George Washington Parke Custis, grandchildren of Martha Washington "adopted to rear as my own" by the general, arrived in 1798 at the elegant mansion in New York, the nation's first capital. The first "first children" were, according to Martha, "very little of being sick" from all the parades and public attention en route.

G.W. Parke, known as Little Wash and called "Tubby" by his grandmothers, was an rascal, a free spirit and a bit spoiled. But his 10-year-old sister Nelly kept a rigid schedule of painting, language and music lessons. She frequently sang at state dinners and for "Congressmen who knew not one note from another."

Nelly was rewarded, though, by a doting grandfather who took the children for rides around Manhattan in the elegant presidential carriage, the theater, the circus and an occasional balloon ascension. Nonetheless, Nelly was delighted to return to Mount Vernon.

"I can hardly believe grandpa is not longer in office... If it is a dream, I hope never to awaken from it," she wrote to a friend.

In later years, she would feel differently.

"Many first children later found their time in the White House to have been the high spot in their lives," the Smithsonian's Margaret Klaphor observes. Klaphor, curator emerita of political history at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., points out that life after the years spent in the President's House with their illustrious grandparents never again had quite the same glow for Nelly and Little Wash."

George Washington was not the only founding father who was a doting grandfather. Social chronicler of the day, Margaret Bayard Smith, described Thomas Jefferson's way with his grandchildren, who had come to spend the winter of 1805 in the President's House.

"While I sat looking at him, playing with these infants, one standing on the sofa with its arms around his neck, the other two youngest on his knees, playing with him, I could scarcely realize he was one of the most celebrated men now living, both as a Politician and Philosopher," she wrote.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, who adored all of his sons, leaves through a photograph album with his youngest son, Tad, who was a diversion in troubled times.

A widower, Jefferson entertained his grandchildren with poems and stories and sent his friend Dolley Madison out to buy them the latest clothes and toys.

Abraham and Mary Lincoln, the indulgent and adoring parents of 17-year-old Robert, 10-year-old Willie and 7-year-old Tad, came to the White House at a harsh time in America's history.

Lincoln, commanding a disastrous Civil War, and his wife, a Southerner and therefore suspect, were attacked by a viciously critical press. Sweet Willie and widely exuberant Tad were a solace in troubled times. Map of Tad's constant pranks. "Taddy" would pile chairs on a sofa and when his unsuspecting father entered the room — "heave ho!"

"Let him romp," Lincoln said, thinking of serious-minded Robert. "he will get 'pokey' soon enough." Tad, dressed in his colonel's uniform and spectacles, purloined from his father, and Willie, wearing his mother's lavender silk dress, put on shows in the attic.

But after one year in the White House, Willie fell ill with a fever and died. Mary was inconsolable. The press called her grief excessive. Lincoln, having lost the son most like himself, bore that burden, too, and went on struggling to hold a nation together. Then came the fateful night of April 14, 1865, when Tad rushed to his friend, doorkeeper Thomas Pender, crying, "O Tom! Tom! They have killed papa dead."

The happy family life of the Grant, Hayes and Garfield families seemed to reflect a healing national life. Grant, the great Civil War hero, walked around with tears in his eyes for days before his darling Nellie — the belle of the nation — was wed in a lavish and widely publicized ceremony.

The Hayes' White House was ly — that he was defeated in 1868.

"Frank," as her husband called her, told the staff to take good care of the White House, "for we are coming back just four years from today."

And so they did — this time with little "Baby Ruth," who became the "nation's sweetheart." Just the same, when her mother, alarmed by smothering public attention to the tiny tot, had the gates to the wide-open White House grounds closed, ugly rumors circulated that the child was deformed. The Cleveland rose above rumor, and in 1893, their second daughter, Esther, became the only president's child to be born in the White House.

Both press and public loved the youthful Theodore Roosevelt family. Ike Hoover, then chief usher, later called them "the wildest scramble in the history of the White House."

Alice, 17; Theodore Jr., 14; Kermit, 12; Ethel, 10; Archibald, 7; and Quentin, 3, came to the mansion on short notice in September 1901, when Vice President Roosevelt became president upon McKinley's assassination. Still, they brought along horses, dogs, cats, parrots, frogs, white mice, guinea pigs, a kangaroo rat and a blue macaw named Eli Yale. Alice went visiting with Emily Spinach, a green snake named for a thin aunt.

Algonquin, the calico pony, traveled upstairs in the elevator to cheer an ailing Archie.

All manner of locomotion was employed as transportation through T.R.'s White House: stiffs for the halls, large doorknobs for tobogganing down the stairs and the obvious roller skates, tricycles, bicycles and little red wagon for everywhere else. The president joined in the pillow fights and the wrestling. Mama Edith was terrified at sports.

Naughty "Princess Alice" sped around in automobiles. Her parents forbade her to smoke under their roof, so she smoked on the roof.

New officers conduct July general meeting

Anna Michel and Leona Delaloye presented the lesson at the monthly meeting of Granite City
Unit, Homemakers Extension
Association held last week at the Nameoki Presbyterian Church.

"Take Care of Yourself Mom" was the topic of the program and the speakers expressed the need to teach development of skills which promote and maintain a positive sense for the individual. Women should try to control their own lives and think positively about themselves, they said.

Vera Lynn opened the meeting leading all in the Lord's Prayer and pledge of allegiance and Mary-Thebeau gave the Homemakers Aim.

First Vice President Adele Wasylak extended appreciation to the program chairmen and to the host committee, Marge Kacera, Ruby Hart and Ruth Lelik, who were in charge of a potluck dinner.

She announced the September program chairman will be Helen Harshany and Ann Konopka and hostesses will be Louise Thompson, Irma Taylor and Wilma Lynn noted forthcoming activities include the Creating Christmas session on Nov. 6 in Edwardsville and the district meeting.

A prize was won by Wilma Owca and after the session a white elephant sale was held.

"What is truth?"

Pontius Pilate asked the question at the trial of Jesus. Individual Christians have struggled with the same question for centuries. Whole denominations debate the question. New denominations are sometimes formed because agreement on the answer could not be found with others in the same association.

Is the following story true?

Once upon a time, in a far-away land, a rabbit and turtle met in a grassy meadow. During their friendly conversation, the issue of lifestyle came up. The rabbit claimed that the way to live was to work hard and play hard; not to take any task too seriously, but to do what was necessary at the moment. Speed and energy were the crucial virtues for Mr. Rabbit.

The turtle held a different view. The way to live, Mr. Turtle said, was to set one's eye on a goal, never waiver, and to plod along, ignoring every distraction until the single aim was realized. For Mr. Turtle, perseverance was the ultimate virtue.

Unable to convince the others with words, the two decided to settle the debate with a race. Both agreed to participate in a race over the same course. Each would run the race in the style they advocated for life. Whoever won the race would prove the wisdom of his position.

At the starting line, they confidently readied themselves for the biggest race in history, a test of lifestyle. At the signal, both headed for the distant finish line. Mr. Turtle picked up one foot at a time and slowly put it down again and again and again. Every time something strange came across his path, he stopped, drew himself into his protective shell and then proceeded safely, but slowly, toward the finish line.

While Mr. Turtle was plodding along, Mr. Rabbit took a big lead. Seeing that he was far ahead of the turtle, he decided he had time to take a break from the boredom of running. He chased some butterflies for awhile; ate a lunch of dandelions; sat under an oak tree and watched the squirrels gather and bury acorns. No point in hurrying since he could easily stay ahead of the turtle with only a flurry of hopping.

While Mr. Rabbit was enjoying a nap, Mr. Turtle kept plodding and finally passed the snoozing rabbit. Just about the time the rabbit awakened from his nap, the slow, crawling turtle crossed the finish line.

the above story is certainly not true. Rabbits may be able to communicate with other rabbits, but they surely don't know the language of turtles. Even if rabbits and turtles can talk to one another, there is no solid evidence that they ever did. Without some human witnesses how can we be sure this race ever really happened? Even with such human witnesses, are we absolutely sure the story they tell is fact?

But if one looks for another brand of truth, honesty demands that the story deserves the label of truth. The virtues of perseverance and singleness of purpose make winners out of people in spite of overwhelming odds. Not only does the story tell that truth, but its lesson is confirmed by experience.

It is clear that Jesus did not always speak the literal truth. He claimed to be a door, but no one believes he meant that he had hinges and a knob. But his claim, even though literally untrue, is rightly accepted as true throughout Christianity.

The debates between interpreters of the Bible focus on the wrong issues when they center on what is or is not literally true. Truth — literal or otherwise — has the power to influence conduct and thought. What difference does that truth make in my thought and conduct?

Truth, not just literal truth, is both the challenge and reward of reading Scripture.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zimmerman

Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman mark golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Zimmerman of Madison were honored at a reception on June 27 marking their golden wedding anniversary.

The social event was held at the VFW Hall in Granite City and was given by their children, Joseph F. Zimmerman, Mary Dixon and Jean Daugherty, all of Granite City, and Joan Walton, Glen Carbon.

Mr. Zimmerman and his wife, the former Margaret Pfeifer, were married on July 6, 1937, at St. Vincent, Ark.

He was employed at Barber Asphalt Co. in Madison until the business closed and later worked for Laclede Steel Co. for 26 years prior to retirement.

Both are members of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Madison, where they attended a Mass in their honor at 8 a.m. July 6. Among those attending were brothers and sisters of the honorees from Chicago and Arkansas and other relatives and friends from Granite City, Madison, Glen Carbon, Texas, Maryland and Oregon.

'Developing Self-Esteem' presented at Trio meet

Trio Unit held its regular meeting at Hope Lutheran Church on July 7, with 37 members and one guest, Mercena Campbell, present. Mary Wilson presided.

"Developing Self-Esteem—Taking Care of Self," was the lesson presented by Louise Anderson.

"Women have traditionally been expected to be the care givers, but this lesson emphasized the need to remember that women have a commitment to themselves and what they do with their time should be up to them," Anderson said.

Wilson announced that Associate Country Women of the World, worldwide meeting is to be held in Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21-29, 1989 and Illinois will be taking part in the entertaining of women from over 60 different countries. Suggestions for fundraising in this regard are under discussion, Wilson said.

Madison County will have an informational booth at the Madison County Fair, Highland, on July 23 and 24. The quilt, to be awarded at the "Creating Christmas" event on Nov. 6, will be displayed and tickets sold.

Hostesses were Marian Hamilton, Rosina Mangiaracino, Helen Robertson and Shirley Thompson. Lucille Sackett led the group in a patriotic quiz and prizes were awarded to Naomi Chapman, Arline Brinkmeyer, Emma Jakich and Lucille Tabor.

Trio Unit will meet at noon, Sept. 1, at Hope Lutheran.

Laumeier Sculpture Park museum without walls

By Pamela Spilbert
Journal correspondent

On a hot summer afternoon, few places are as inviting as Laumeier Sculpture Park in south St. Louis County. With its lovely expanses of manicured green lawns and woody hiking trails, the park is a veritable haven from bustle and bustle and city heat. But it has far more to offer than this.

A beguiling in 1978 to St. Louis County by the late Henry and Mathilde Laumeier, the park was considered from the outset to be a "museum without walls," its purpose to encourage the development of modern sculpture and make it available to the public.

The collection has grown rapidly since the initial gift of 40 original sculptures was made by St. Louis artist Ernest Prova. Interest in the park has grown just as rapidly, possibly because of the controversy generated in Laumeier's early days, when many argued that modern art had no place in a public park. People came to see what the fuss was about.

They liked what they saw and though there were no traditional recreational facilities, St. Louisans flocked to Laumeier, making it one of the most popular parks in the county system, with 350,000 visitors a year.

There's something for everyone. The lovely stone building, once a summer home for the Laumeiers, houses an art gallery. Here contemporary sculpture, drawings, paintings, ceramics and photography are regularly on display. Also here is an Orientation Center, which features a 14-minute video showing the many attractions and programs of Laumeier to visitors. A jewel of a gift shop tucked into a roomy corner offers treasures (at reasonable prices) from all over the world.

Walking from the gallery, one has the feeling of entering the well-cultured gardens of an English manor house. Clipped hedges, elegant rose bushes in full bloom stand in well-ordered design on green lawns that fall gently away from the mansion to the trees. Placed carefully to blend with this setting are the sculptures.

Behind the gallery stands the most unusual work of art, called the Bee sculpture. "Artist Garnett Pruitt created a form of his wife Whendi in wax," said Laumeier curator Debra Reinhardt. "The statue was housed in a small building which became a giant beehive when Pruitt introduced a queen and some 100,000 honey bees."

The bees are currently creating an elaborate comb on the wax, giving the statue the appearance of a bearded lady wearing a cape.

Beyond the lawns are the neatly groomed woods. Paths "paved" with wood chips have been cut in many directions, winding up and down the hills of Laumeier's 20 acres. Arrows indicate sculptures you will encounter in sudden clearings.

One of the most popular of these, Reinhardt said, is a "site specific" cedar "pyramid" by Jackie Ferrara. Other woodland works include "The Hundred Small Rooms," a white building edged with six stories of white picket fence, by Alice Aycock; and, rather shockingly, a mountain of rusted shopping carts, all welded together.

Seemingly the perfect spot for outdoor performances of Shakespeare or chamber concerts is the "natural amphitheater," the recently dedicated creation of Beverly Pepper. Speaking of natural, all these displays — except maybe the shopping carts — are naturals for hours of fun for children.

For those who want to picnic, there is Moss Pavilion. It is in a lovely, secluded spot, and provides ample space for picnickers.

Laumeier offers a series of summer concerts. They are held at 7 p.m. every Sunday through Aug. 2. Concerts include programs by jazz, ragtime and big-band performers. For information on workshops and summer concert schedules, call 821-1209.

VCR: Harrison Ford rejects society in 'Mosquito Coast'

By Nick Pacino
Journal correspondent

"The Mosquito Coast" (1986) is an exhilarating dramatic film about a man who rejects the decadence and deceit of modern society to forge his own Utopia. Based on the Paul Theroux novel and directed by Peter Weir ("Witness"), it stars Harrison Ford as eccentric inventor Allie Fox, who is obsessed with escaping to an untamed world far from fast food, TV, crime and phony evangelism.

Fleeing to the Central American town of Jeronimo with his wife (Helen Mirren), whom he calls "Mother," and his four children, Allie becomes the Ice King of the tropics by inventing a huge ice machine called "Fat Boy." Naturally, his fame and fortune attract all of the savage elements of civilization from which he fled, but his real fall from grace comes from an inflated ego which transforms the dreamer into a dictator. Uprooting his family after the town is invaded by criminals, Allie courts tragedy when he forches a church run by a Rev. Spellgood (Andre Gregory).

River Phoenix, who was so convincing as the leader of the pack in "Stand By Me," gives a solid performance as Allie's oldest son Charlie. Ford earned a Golden Globe nomination for his intriguing portrayal. Warner Home Video, PG for violence and language, 119 minutes, color, VHS/Beta Stereo, closed captioned.

Veteran director Sidney Lumet has had some high power hits and misses in his long career: the disappointing "Power" with Richard Gere and the powerful "The Verdict" with Paul Newman. In "The Morning After" (1986), he forged an Oscar nominated performance from Jane Fonda as a down-on-her-luck actress framed for murder.

Alex Sternbergen, a compulsive drinker, finds a corpse sharing her bed after awakening from an alcoholic binge. Her panicked flight from the law is halted by ex-cop Turner Kendall (Jeff Bridges) who dusts off his detective skills and brushes up on his romancing skills to help the hapless Alex. Her ex-husband Joaquin Manner (Raoul Julia) plants seeds of doubt about Kendall's involvement in the mystery, even suggesting that Alex is his next victim, while Kendall struggles with his own doubts about Alex's innocence.

Although the ending may not be much of a surprise, the caliber of acting makes this film superior viewing. Kart-Lorimar Home Video, Rated R for violence and language, 103 minutes, color, VHS/ Beta, closed captioned.

Most teen-ager who are not jaded viewers will find the special effects and action of the energetic sci-fi adventure "Solarbabies" (1986) satisfying. Talent newcomers Jami Gertz

Most teen-ager who are not jaded viewers will find the special effects and action of the energetic sci-fi adventure "Solarbabies" (1986) satisfying. Talent newcomers Jami Gertz

("Square Pegs") and Jas on Patric join veteran character actor Charles Durning in the year 4900 when an evil government controls the world's supply of water, forcing most of the people to live in the dry waste lands.

Durning is the warden of a prison for teen-agers, whose main recreation is competing in a rough and tumble game on roller skates. Decked out in flashy protective gear they engage in a Mad Max version of "Rollerball."

With the aid of an alien-like sphere called "Bodhi," one of the teams, the Solarbabies, breaks out of prison to take on villain Richard Jordan and the dictatorial Protectorate. MGM/UA Home Video, PG-13 for violence, 95 minutes, color, VHS/ Beta, closed captioned.

KODAK Video Programs is a division of the Eastman Kodak Company. Their list of releases includes "Exploring Photography" and "Bill Cosby: 49."

Their newest release is "Winning Basketball" with coaching legend "Red" Auerbach, the Boston Celtics and superstar Larry Bird demonstrating the fundamentals of winning. Illustrated with NBA game highlights. Filmed at Hellenic College in Brookline, Mass., the tape is a clinic of the game in general, ball handling and other skills in particular. The 60-minute tape will appeal to fans, coaches and players alike. In VHS, Beta and 8mm formats.

The Munny's opening production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's hit musical Cats (along with a rain-swept audience) sat on the fence from 8:30 until approximately 8:45 p.m. Monday when officials called off the show.

Rain checks and refunds are available to ticketholders.

Cats is The Munny's third production. The two previous attractions also suffered rain outs—a Thursday night deluge that put a damper on the season's opening musical, The Sound of Music, and a Monday night cloudburst that ruined the opening of My One And Only.

In 'Hot Pursuit' of country star

The lighted sign outside tells the story in four words: "Country Music—Duane Pursley." Inside and up the staircase is where the story unfolds, told by the country standards of Hank Williams and the recent hits of Randy Travis. That's where Duane Pursley and his band "Hot Pursuit" entertain Tuesday through Saturday in the House of Lions at the Executive International Inn, 4530 N. Lindbergh Blvd.

Each evening is an open encyclopedia of country music—from the rumpled honky-tonk works of Waylon Jennings to the starched ballads of George Strait. Leading the band and turning the figurative pages is Pursley, a 32-year-old truck driver from Fegida, who is enjoying the top of his local popularity after more than 15 years singing country music in all parts of town. "I couldn't go pop if I had a mouthful of firecrackers," Pursley likes to say. "I like the old country and I like Pop 40 country. But I like to mix it up, too. I like to sing like Hank Williams and Webb Pierce, you just can't do that for four hours. You have to be commercial and anyway, it's such a this line today for what country is."

Pursley rides that line with the confidence of an old ranch hand. His voice is rich, baritone and classic country, but his look is suburban casual with crisp jeans and Miami Vice sports caps that define Nashville in the '80s.

He has surrounded himself with a multitalented band that includes J.D. Walka on bass, Dennis Roussin on drums, Russ Weaver on steel guitar and Ron Weaver on guitar. The rewards of Pursley's work are beginning to snowball.

First, in 1983, Pursley was voted male vocalist of the year by the Missouri Valley Pickers Association, and in '84, an earlier version of his band, then known as Windwalker, was selected as the association's band of the year.

Now, Blossom Gap Records of Nashville has expressed an interest in Pursley's talent. He is scheduled to make a series of demonstration tapes this summer, either to be released on the Blossom Gap label or to be shopped by Blossom Gap to more well-known record companies. It is the interest of showcasing Pursley's catalog of songs.

Most of Blossom Gap's business is in its publishing branch, Pursley said, and the company could benefit by getting Pursley's songs to another, larger record company because its songs would gain wide exposure through Pursley's anticipated success as a performer.

Pursley, however, is not anticipating anything.

"Everything that Nashville does, I think you have to take with a grain of salt," he said. "I'm tired of being about talking about it because I haven't signed any papers yet. You never know until you get down there and get it done. They're liable to pat you on the back and say, 'Get back to St. Louis, you don't have any business here' or they might say, 'This is great. Let's do a few more. Stay another day.'"

Blossom Gap approached Pursley on the strength of a demo tape he recorded for Archway Records of St. Louis, a company operated by well-known country singer Nick Nixon and songwriter Ed Johnson. Nixon and Johnson say some original songs they wanted to showcase on a demo tape and they used Pursley's voice for the recording.

Several record executives liked the voice on the tape and inquired about the singer. A Blossom Gap executive was most interested and offered Pursley an opportunity to record. "It's something comes of it, that's real good," Pursley said. "If not, then so what. There's nothing lost. I'm flattered to have them even consider me. I've been around a while, and I don't want to say I've paid my dues, but I do go to work each night and try to give the people as much as I can offer."

Pursley was raised in Sunset Hills and attended Lindbergh High School, but his family is from various parts of southern Missouri and he remembers country music was an important part of the household in which he grew up. His father played the harmonica, his mother played the fiddle and both parents could pick guitars.

"My parents used to have jam sessions on Saturday evenings," said Pursley, who has a wife and two children. "A lot of musicians would come around and I took an interest in country because it was natural. I was raised around it."

Pursley speaks often and highly of his band, and he is proud of his own work although it is harder for him to admit.

"I'm very critical of myself," Pursley said. "Maybe that's good. If you get to a point where you think everything you do is great, that's when you have problems."

CHRIS HAMPSEY races home after a wild pitch by Bethalto pitcher Brad Carmody (right) during the Optimists' seven-run first inning on Sunday. Granite City raised its record to 13-4 (11-3 in league play) with the win.

First-inning salvo carries Optimists past Bethalto

By Carl Jacobs
Staff writer

BETHALTO -- The Optimists had a great first inning in a game that almost wasn't played, then staved off a comeback to beat Bethalto Post 214 11-5 on Sunday.

With the dark sky, Bethalto's lack of players and the missing umpires, there was a strong omen that the game would not be played.

Earlier in the day, Troy forfeited a game at Granite City and the Optimists were fairly close to winning their second game of the day without throwing a pitch.

Things improved quickly. Within a span of 10 minutes, Bethalto managed to get nine players, the umpire finally showed up, the rain held off and Granite City jumped out to a 7-0 lead.

"We came out swinging the bats, that's for sure," said Optimists manager Paul Kacera. "We did more hitting in the first inning of this game than we did in the double-header against Freeburg Saturday."

In that one, the Optimists lost 11-1 and 6-2.

But their offense was back on track Sunday and with the big lead, Optimists hurler Chris Bartling pitched four strong innings before struggling in the fifth and giving way to Chad Lignoul in the sixth.

Bartling struck out five and walked only two until he gave three passes in the fifth.

"I could tell he was tiring," Kacera said. "I just wanted him to get through the fifth and I was probably going to take him out. Then he told me his arm was hurting and that made my decision final."

Lignoul, with limited relief experience, came in and was very effective. In the two innings he pitched, he struck out three, giving up one hit.

"Before this, he only pitched

Begando pitches Triplets to 6th straight

The Triplets will enter the final -- and most exhausting -- part of the schedule with a six-game winning streak.

Post 113 took its sixth straight victory with a 15-3 triumph at Highland Saturday. Lefthander Mark Begando endured to pitch a complete game, which might come in handy as the Triplets started a stretch Tuesday in which they will likely play nine games in as many days.

"Mark threw as hard as I have seen him," said manager Gus Lignoul, who saw his team's record go up to 11-6 (8-3 in District 22 play). "He had been a little tentative since he hurt his elbow during the high school season."

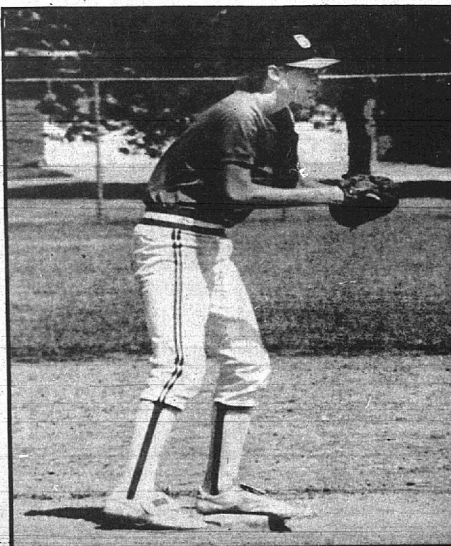

Begando was far from overpowering as he allowed six hits and eight walks, but 10 strikeouts helped bail him out of numerous jams.

"He threw 110 pitches," Lignoul said. "We had originally planned to let him go five innings, but he had a good lead and he said he still felt good, so he kept pitching. He had his pitches up around 80 mph, which was an improvement for him."

Begando had plenty of margin for error, however. His teammates kept the hot bats smoking as eight different players chalked up RBIs in the game. Scott LeVault led the way, going 3 for 3 with three runs scored and two RBIs. Tim Hogan was 2 for 4 with two RBIs; Jamie Hogan was 1 for 5 with three runs scored and one RBI. Todd Hensler was 1 for 2 (a double) with three walks and two RBIs. John Moad was 2 for 5 with an RBI. Joe Wallace was 1 for 5 with an RBI; Charlie Collins was 1 for 4 with an RBI; and Chad Lignoul was 1 for 4 with an RBI.

"We're swinging the bats pretty well and our pitching should be in good shape," Lignoul said of the busy stretch that started with Tuesday's home game against Troy. "We have LeVault, (Martin) Hendrickson, Begando, Moad and (Mike) Krausz. That's five pretty good pitchers. I'm not too worried about it right now."

After going seven days without

MARK BEGANDO was the winning pitcher as he got 10 strikeouts in the Triplets' 15-3 win at Highland on Saturday.

a game last week, the Triplets will more than make up for that in the next week. They host Alton tonight, will try to schedule O'Fallon on Thursday (that will be a rescheduling of a rained-out game on Sunday); host Waterloo on Friday (makeup of June 30 game); host Cahokia on Saturday (makeup of July 7 game); play at Alton on Sunday; host Fairview Heights on Monday; play at Edwardsville on Tuesday; and host Marlissa next Wednesday (makeup of July 1 game).

The District 22 playoffs will begin July 24, although the Triplets won't have to play until the beginning of the next week if they finish high in the North Division standings.

Gurkin's hit wins for Chiefs

Dennis Gurkin got a little help from his son as the Granite City Chiefs pulled out a 4-3 win at Carrollton on Sunday.

The Chiefs trailed 3-2 until Dennis Gurkin Jr. came through with a two-run single in the seventh inning. That hit plated the winning runs as Darrel Harris nailed down the win, improving Granite City's record to 4-3 in 3-M League play.

"We played heads up ball the whole game," said the elder Gurkin, the team's manager. "We didn't make any errors and our pitchers only walked two batters. Those are the things that beat you."

The younger Gurkin was also the beneficiary of one of two bases-loaded walks earlier in the game that provided the Chiefs with their first two runs. Rich Takmanja and Jim Chomko had two hits apiece to pace the offense.

Harris pitched three scoreless innings of relief to get the win. But starter Dominic Griffin also pitched very well. He was victimized mostly by the small dimensions of the Carrollton field.

"I think it's only about 310 feet to straightaway center field," Gurkin said. "They hit two cheap home runs off of Dominic. He only allowed one legitimate run in his six innings and he struck out four. But Darrel came in and had his hitters beating the ball into the ground for the most part."

The win puts the Chiefs in a good position for a pair of games this weekend against league-leading White City. A game at White City on July 5 was rained out and will be made up this Saturday in conjunction with the teams' regularly scheduled game on Sunday. Saturday's game will be at 1 p.m. at Dal Maxwell Field. The Sunday game, originally scheduled for Granite City, will be played in White City at 2 p.m.

"It's a big weekend," Gurkin said. "We're 4-3 now and they're 1-1. I think they are going to start their best pitcher against us here. If we can win that one we could sweep the weekend. That would put us ahead of them in the standings."

The Chiefs are now tied for fourth in the 3-M League. That would have left them on the edge in a battle for a playoff spot. But at a league meeting last week, the playoff format was dramatically changed.

All teams in the league will now be admitted to post-season play. The No. 8 and No. 9 teams will play in the first round, the winner to face the regular season champion. No. 2 will play No. 7, No. 3 will play No. 6, and No. 4 will play No. 5.

"I thought that was the only way to go," Gurkin said. "It only takes one week longer. And we usually get our best weather of the season in September."

"This is the fairest way. We have some teams who haven't won or have only won one game. They wouldn't have anything to play for the rest of the year."

one inning of relief." Kacera said. "He had good control and his breaking ball was effective." In the first inning, the Optimists capitalized on two straight walks to open the game. Bethalto to starter Brad Carmindy was all over the place with his pitches. He walked Chris Nolan and John Van Buskirk. Bartling then whacked a single to score a run. Kory Borton walked and Chris Hampsey singled home two more runs to make the score 3-0 before the Optimists' first out.

Jeff Kohler struck out but Chris Ryan's base hit chased home another run. The Optimists used aggressive baserunning when Post #14's right fielder tried to throw out Burton at the plate. On the play, Hampsey took third and Ryan took second.

The play proved important as the next pitch sailed to the backstop and Hampsey scored easily. With still only one out, Chad Lignoul walked. A wild pitch put Ryan on third and Lignoul on second.

After Jerry Thompson struck out, Nolan hit a grounder to the shortstop. His throw was wild and both Ryan and Lignoul scored without a play.

The sixth and seventh runs of the inning.

Bartling shut out Bethalto in that all-important inning after a team has scored.

Granite City scored three more runs in the second. Hampsey singled and Kohler hit a booming triple over the right fielder's head. Ryan then singled Kohler home for his second RBI in as many at bats. A wild pitch sent Ryan to second and after Lignoul grounded out, Thompson walked.

Bethalto put in Andy Sticht to pitch and he promptly made an errant pickoff throw over the first baseman's head. Ryan went to third on the error and scored on a passed ball.

Bethalto punched a run across in the second inning without the aid of a hit. Gordon McCrae reached on catcher's interference. When McCrae swung the bat, catcher Lignoul got his glove in the way and McCrae was given first base.

McCrae went to second on a ground out, stole third and scored on a wild pitch.

Granite City scored one more run in the fifth. Lignoul bunted for a hit and a second, Matt Cook, batting for Nolan, singled up the middle and Lignoul raced home.

Bethalto stretched for four runs to dodge the 10-run rule.

Pasley singled and the next three batters walked, forcing in a run. Mike Wilson hit a deep sacrifice fly to score another run and McCrae tripled to clear the bases and make the score 10-5. Lignoul then replaced Bartling to start the sixth and he doused any hope Bethalto had of coming back. He retired four of the five batters he faced. The one that managed to reach was thrown out trying to steal third by Granite City backstop Hampsey.
